Boards of Directors
Judy Benitez Clancy
September 2019
In contrast, nonprofit organizations do not have shareholders but instead have stakeholders that represent the communities that they serve, including donors, funders, and survivors. The nonprofit board of directors will generally represent their various constituency and make decisions based on these multiple interests.

Succession Planning
Judy Benitez Clancy
September 2019
All nonprofit sexual assault and domestic violence organizations can benefit from succession planning, regardless of their size... Developing and implementing a succession plan can further build and strengthen your organization by enhancing and creating a learning orientation for your board and staff, building the capacity of your organization's operations, and enhancing your organization's services to the community.

Intro to NNEDV
Josie St. John
May 2019
Get to know the National Network to End Domestic Violence - "NNEDV will provide national, regional, state, and local capacity building technical assistance to FVPSA formula grantees and subgrantees by providing training and technical assistance (TA), developing a peer-to-peer formula grantee TA network, and creating and distributing capacity building resources. NNEDV will support the evolution of healthy, sound, and sustainable organizations that are mission-driven and provide trauma-informed and survivor-centered services, allowing organizations to be better equipped to serve victims and survivors and engage in comprehensive systems change efforts."
