Funding to End Domestic Violence: FY 24 Appropriations Requests

The National Network to End Domestic Violence (NNEDV) urges Congress to increase essential funding for domestic and sexual violence programs in Fiscal Year 2024 (FY 24). Despite progress in reducing domestic violence over the last 30 years, many victims are still trapped in life-threatening situations. Domestic violence affects millions of victims each year and has increased in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic. Additional resources are needed in FY 24 to fill the gaps. Priority programs outlined directly below allocate resources to every state and territory and work together to ensure that local domestic violence and sexual assault programs, including culturally specific programs, have the resources to meet survivors’ complex needs. Detailed descriptions of priority programs and complementary programs, including Appropriations bills and federal administering agencies, are provided in the following pages.

Overview of Priority Programs

Victims of Crime Act Fund (VOCA): $2 Billion
VOCA is made up of fines and penalties paid by federal criminals, not taxpayer dollars, and funds nearly 6,500 victim services organizations.

Family Violence Prevention and Services Act (FVPSA): $500 Million
FVPSA funds emergency shelters, crisis lines, counseling, victim assistance, and other vital services for more than one million victims and their children each year. DELTA prevention grants at CDC help to end violence before it begins.

Supporting a Culturally Specific Public Health Approach for Survivors: $35 Million
Survivors of color urgently need culturally relevant services that address domestic and sexual violence.

Violence Against Women Act (VAWA): $1.17 Billion
Key VAWA programs ensure victims are safe and communities respond to survivors, including responding to the culturally specific needs of survivors:

★ Sexual Assault Services Program: $100M for rape crisis centers.
★ Transitional Housing Program: $100M to house survivors and rebuild their lives.
★ Legal Assistance for Victims: $100M for civil legal assistance for survivors.
★ All VAWA DOJ programs: Full funding for all VAWA programs

Domestic and Sexual Violence Funds for Homelessness Assistance: $90 Million
An ongoing set-aside in the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) Continuum of Care program allows communities to provide targeted housing and assistance for survivors facing homelessness ($75 million) and $15 million to implement survivor initiatives and protections at HUD.

Funding to Address Immigrant Survivors: $15 Million
U visas and VAWA self-petitions are critical for victims to escape and overcome abuse. Congress must invest in resources to reduce a processing backlog that endangers survivors

Victims of Crime Act (VOCA) Funding – $2 Billion (CJS/DOJ)

Congress must provide steady funding in FY 24 and work towards sustainability of the Crime Victims Fund.

The Victims of Crime Act (VOCA) uses non-taxpayer money from the Crime Victims Fund (CVF) for programs that serve victims of crime, including state-formula victim assistance grants. These funds, which are generated by fines and penalties from federal prosecutions and non-prosecution and deferred prosecution agreements, support services to over six million victims of all types of crimes annually, through almost 6,500 direct service organizations such as domestic violence shelters, rape crisis centers, and child abuse treatment programs. Sustained VOCA funds are needed to respond to the dangerous lack of available services for victims.

Deposits to the CVF began shrinking considerably in the past few years. As a result, programs have begun experiencing massive cuts in victim services funding. Enacted in the 117th Congress, the VOCA Fix to Sustain the Crime Victims Fund Act of 2021 (VOCA Fix) is beginning to increase deposits to the fund, which should help restore funds to local programs and reduce gaps in survivor services. Congress must provide level funding in FY 24 ($2 billion). If the fund cannot sustain the same level of funding as FY 23, Congress must find other sources to maintain steady funding for this vital program.

We urge you to:

★ Provide $2 billion for VOCA programs in FY 24 to address the urgent needs of victims of crime.

★ Support a continued federal funding stream from VOCA for tribes. Individuals on tribal lands experience disproportionately high rates of domestic and sexual violence and need funding for victim services.
Family Violence Prevention and Services Act (FVPSA) – $500 Million & DELTA – $26 Million (LHHS/HHS)

We urge Congress to provide $500 million for FVPSA and $26 million for The Domestic Violence Prevention Enhancements and Leadership Through Alliances (DELTA) program.

The Family Violence Prevention and Services Act (FVPSA) supports lifesaving services, including emergency shelters, crisis hotlines, counseling, and programs for underserved communities throughout the United States. Administered by the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS), FVPSA is the only federal funding source dedicated to domestic violence shelters and programs. A multi-state study funded by the National Institute of Justice shows that the nation’s domestic violence shelters are addressing both the immediate safety and long-term needs of victims, including economic stability.\(^1\) The latest available data revealed that FVPSA-funded programs provide shelter and nonresidential services to approximately 1.3 million survivors and their children annually.\(^2\)

Despite FVPSA’s success, community-based domestic violence programs report that, at current funding levels, they cannot meet the overwhelming demand for services. NNEDV’s 16th Annual Domestic Violence Counts Report found that during one day in 2021, 70,032 victims of domestic violence received services; however, on that same day, 9,444 requests for services went unmet due to a lack of funding. Of those unmet requests, 64% were for safe housing.\(^4\) COVID-19 has exacerbated this problem and requests for domestic violence services continue to increase. Additional FVPSA funding will help close this unacceptable gap in services.

The President’s proposed budget includes funding for the Safe Recovery Together demonstration project that would support families affected by domestic violence at the intersection of substance-use coercion, housing instability, and child welfare involvement. This demonstration project will help alleviate the problem that pregnant and parenting domestic violence survivors can face, especially high barriers to accessing services to address substance-use coercion. We urge you to provide $30 million for Safe Recovery Together grants.

Additionally, we urge Congress to include $26 million for the DELTA program, administered by the Centers for Disease Control’s (CDC) National Center for Injury Prevention and Control. DELTA is the only dedicated federal funding source for the primary prevention of domestic violence. In approximately 45 communities across the nation, the DELTA program identifies effective strategies to prevent first-time perpetration and first-time victimization of domestic violence. A substantial increase in funding will enable the DELTA program to expand to additional states and communities, and will also provide opportunities for communities to leverage additional funding.
Supporting a Culturally Specific Public Health Approach for Survivors – $35 Million (LHHS/HHS)

Congress must allocate $35 million for The Supporting a Culturally Specific Public Health Approach for Survivors program administered by the Family Violence Prevention and Services Office at HHS.

Communities of Color have been disproportionately impacted by the pandemic. Higher infection and mortality rates in Communities of Color are indicative of long-term systemic inequities, including access to healthcare, wealth and wage gaps, the digital divide, lack of language access, housing disparities, and food deserts, among other issues. There is a dearth of funding for under-resourced, culturally specific programs, which are a lifeline for survivors in their communities. These organizations provide holistic services; offer language access for survivors with limited English proficiency; provide food; and increase access to other lifesaving resources.

Funding for culturally specific services for Communities of Color is nominal and is truly insufficient to meet the needs of domestic violence and sexual assault survivors at the nexus of a public health and financial crisis. Survivors from Communities of Color urgently need culturally specific services that address the nexus of domestic violence and sexual assault with other health outcomes.

Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) – $1.14 Billion (CJS/DOJ)

We urge Congress to provide $1.14 billion for VAWA DOJ programs. Priority programs are outlined below.

Sexual Assault Services Program – $100 Million
The Sexual Assault Services Program (SASP) is the only federal funding dedicated to the provision of direct services to victims of sexual violence. A recent report to Congress revealed 55,000 survivors of sexual assault had been served and 300 advocate positions were supported by SASP during the reporting period. Across the country, SASP funds support critical services that adult and child victims need most, including counseling, accompaniment through medical and legal processes, and support for underserved populations. Research shows that these services increase prosecution rates and help victims recover. However, the nation’s 1,500 sexual assault programs often lack the resources to meet victims’ basic needs. According to a 2022 survey by the National Alliance to End Sexual Violence (NAESV), 45% of programs lack a therapist on staff, with survivors waiting up to six months to receive counseling. We urge Congress to increase SASP funds, which will help fill in the gap to support local rape crisis centers.

Transitional Housing Program – $100 Million
This vital VAWA program helps communities in every state give victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, dating violence, and stalking a safe place to begin to rebuild their lives. According to NNEDV, on just one day in 2021, 38,608 adults and children were housed in domestic violence housing and shelter programs. On the same day, however, 6,049 requests for emergency shelter, transitional or other housing were denied due to a lack of capacity.

The extreme dearth of affordable housing nationwide produces a situation where many victims of domestic violence must return to their abusers because they cannot find stable housing, while others are forced into homelessness.
Because many individuals have lost income and must now rebuild their lives separate from an abusive former partner, the need for housing assistance will remain elevated until the economy rebounds. The VAWA transitional housing program provides survivors with 6-24 months of housing with supportive services and the majority of program participants report increased safety and housing stability upon exit. We urge Congress to increase investment in the Transitional Housing program, which will allow more communities to house survivors and their children.

Legal Assistance for Victims (LAV) Program – $100 Million
The practical nature of legal services gives survivors long-term alternatives to their abusive relationships. Legal services are also vital to support survivors of sexual assault in civil matters. However, the retainers or hourly fees for private legal representation are beyond the means of most victims of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, and stalking. Legal services are second only to medical services as the most-requested need of victims. Sadly, many survivors face economic abuse and do not have the means to secure legal assistance in the aftermath of domestic abuse or sexual assault. From February 1, 2022 to January 31, 2023 the number of unique visitors to NNEDV’s WomensLaw.org legal information website increased by 26% compared to the prior 12-month period. The increase from 4.7 million unique visitors to 5.9 million clearly shows the increased need for legal information related to domestic violence. The LAV program is the only federally funded program designed to meet the legal needs of victims. We urge Congress to provide substantial increases to the LAV program as a sound investment in long-term solutions to violence.

DV and SA Bonus Funds via HUD’s Continuum of Care Homeless Program – $75 Million and funds to implement VAWA – $15 Million (THUD/HUD)

We urge Congress to allocate $75 million for HUD’s Continuum of Care Homeless Program to help survivors access safe, affordable housing and rebuild their lives. Survivors of domestic violence and sexual assault often flee unsafe circumstances and seek refuge through emergency shelter, transitional housing, and rapid-rehousing programs to avoid homelessness. Since FY 18, the Transportation, Housing and Urban Development (THUD) Appropriations committee has included a $50-$52 million set-aside for housing for survivors of domestic violence and sexual assault in the HUD Continuum of Care (CoC) homelessness assistance program (also known as the DV/SA Bonus Funds). These dedicated funds for survivor-specific housing resources, including rapid rehousing, are a vital funding source for victim service providers to address the unique safety needs of survivors. Additionally, we appreciate the inclusion of funds in FY 23 for training and technical assistance on the implementation of housing protections for survivors created in the newly passed VAWA 2022 Reauthorization. We urge Congress to provide $15 million in FY 24 for domestic violence and sexual assault training and technical assistance and to implement VAWA.

Funding to Address Needs of Immigrant Victims – $15 Million and Policy Recommendations (DHS/DHS)

We urge Congress to provide at least $15 million, in addition to $400 million to address U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) backlogs to process victim-related applications within 90 days of receipt and ensure the timely access to employment authorization for victims in the U-visa program, as well as in the T-visa and VAWA self-petition programs. Additionally, we urge Congress to enact the policy recommendations outlined below.

Many abusers use immigration status to control their victims. Fortunately, Congress has recognized these risks and created the U visa and VAWA self-petition remedies. The U visa was established in 2000 for victims of certain designated crimes who suffered substantial physical or mental abuse and are certified as helpful to law enforcement or government officials in the investigation or prosecution of criminal activity.

However, due to the delay in the issuance of regulations until 2007, the 10,000 visas available annually were not allocated during FY 2001-FY 2007. We are requesting inclusion of legislative language and sufficient funding to: 1) recapture the unallocated visas from the date of the enactment of the U-visa program until the present day — a minor technical change that would significantly alleviate the backlog of over 170,800 primary applicants awaiting U-visas; 2) fund Policy Advisors within the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) Office of Civil Rights and Civil Liberties (CRCL), Council on Combating Gender-Based Violence (the Council or CCGBV), to field inquiries from stakeholders regarding the implementation of immigration laws, regulations, and policies relating to GBV, to track, investigate, and issue recommendations for Department action on inquiries and complaints; and to provide critical expertise to the Department in developing and implementing policies that impact and pertain to survivors, including assisting with regulatory drafting and promoting a coordinated, consistent, and holistic approach to serving them ($1 million request).

Additional DOJ/VAWA Programs (CJS)

The programs described below complement the priority programs outlined above to meet the multifaceted needs of survivors. We urge Congress to provide a total of $1.14 billion for VAWA programs.

VAWA STOP Program – $326 Million

VAWA’s Services, Training, Officers, and Prosecutors (STOP) Grant Program supports coordinated community responses to domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, and stalking, helping hundreds of thousands of victims find safety and receive services, while holding perpetrators accountable for their actions. STOP funds are awarded to every state and territory through a formula-based system, and the funds also support tribes; state, territorial, and tribal coalitions; and culturally specific programs. Communities use STOP funds to ensure the system-wide response to survivors is tailored and well-equipped to meet survivors’ needs. Victims benefit from services, including advocacy, crisis intervention, local hotline call advocacy, counseling and support, and victim/witness notification. In 2016, STOP grant-funded programs helped 362,172 victims and trained 252,795 professionals. We call on Congress to prioritize newly allocated funding in STOP to invest in victim services, especially culturally specific programs. Additionally, we call on Congress to prioritize funding for tribes and state, territorial, and tribal coalitions.
Survivors in rural areas face unique barriers, including: a lack of access to childcare, legal services, and public transportation; under-resourced law enforcement; and fewer domestic violence programs. Funding for the Rural Grant Program, which supports services for victims of domestic violence and sexual assault living in rural and isolated areas, has remained stagnant for the last several years despite the enormous need.

All VAWA programs work together to provide a comprehensive response to victims of violence, including lifesaving services to victims with disabilities, elderly victims, LGBTQ+ and Deaf survivors; direct financial assistance as a low-barrier way to help survivors find stability after abuse; programs to prevent violence by working with children, youth, and college students (including increased investments in Historically Black Colleges and Universities, Hispanic-Serving Institutes, and Tribal Colleges); projects addressing courts and visitation; a response to the epidemic of sexual assault and domestic violence on tribal lands; projects addressing violence in the workplace; and restorative practices, prevention programs and public health responses to violence and abuse. These programs must receive sustained and increased funding to ensure that our communities can build on our years of progress and meet the needs of all victims.

The programs described below complement the priority programs outlined above to meet the multifaceted needs of survivors. We urge Congress to provide a total of $778.75 million for HHS programs addressing domestic violence and sexual assault.

Rape Prevention and Education (RPE) formula grants, administered by the CDC’s National Center for Injury Prevention and Control, provide essential funding to states and territories to support prevention programs conducted by rape crisis centers, state sexual assault coalitions, and other public agencies and private nonprofit entities. The RPE program prepares individuals to get involved, prevent sexual violence and create safer communities. RPE is working. A five-year randomized trial funded by the CDC found that, in Kentucky high schools, there was a more than 50% reduction in the self-reported frequency of sexual violence perpetration by students at schools that received the RPE-funded Green Dot bystander intervention training. However, a 2022 survey by NAESV revealed that 70% of programs saw an increased demand for services while 46% experienced a decrease in funding.

The Public Health Service Act of 2010 included a guaranteed $7 million minimum set-aside in the Preventive Health and Health Services Block Grant, administered by the CDC to support direct services to victims of sexual assault and to prevent rape. States and communities rely on the set-aside to fund critical sexual assault services and prevention work.
