A MESSAGE FROM OUR LEADERSHIP

November 2023

Dear NNEDV friends and supporters,

On behalf of the Board of Directors, I am pleased to present our 2022 Annual Report. At its very essence, NNEDV is a social change organization. Our dedicated team works to make domestic violence a national priority, to change the way society responds to domestic violence, and to strengthen advocacy at every level. Our theme of Moving Ahead Together demonstrates the combined power of NNEDV and our member coalitions to deliver on our mission to create a world in which violence against women and all individuals no longer exists.

NNEDV was established to be the leading national voice for survivors and to promote critical federal legislation. Last year was another successful year for our advocacy efforts. In 2022, our top legislative priority for NNEDV and our member coalitions was the reauthorization of the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA), and we celebrated its passage in March. The bipartisan legislation included groundbreaking provisions to strengthen and modernize the law, toward the goal of ensuring all victims are served and supported. VAWA included critical housing protections, economic justice, and non-discrimination provisions; restored tribal sovereignty to hold non-native perpetrators accountable; and made important investments in culturally specific service providers.

The fiscal year 2022 omnibus appropriations bill reflected much-needed increases for NNEDV’s priorities, including the Family Violence Prevention and Services Act (FVPSA) and the Victims of Crime Act (VOCA). These investments will help make significant strides towards filling in the gaps in services and ensure survivors have access to the full spectrum of resources and options they need to protect themselves and heal after violence and abuse.

In 2022, NNEDV was compelled to condemn the Supreme Court ruling in Dobbs v. Jackson Women’s Health Organization. For domestic violence survivors, abortion access is a matter of safety; all people, including survivors, deserve full control over their lives and decisions, including the ability to safely and freely decide whether or not to become, or stay, pregnant. NNEDV and our member coalitions continue to address the impacts of this decision on the work we do with survivors experiencing reproductive and sexual abuse and coercion and to advocate that Congress act to protect access to abortion for everyone.

NNEDV is comprised of 56 state and territorial coalitions that in turn support nearly 2,000 local shelters and providers. In a given day, almost 80,000 people receive life-changing services within our network—services like counseling appointments, nights in a shelter, legal representation at child custody hearings, and assistance finding housing.

Our 2022 audit was finalized this past September and we are proud to report that NNEDV is in a strong financial position, which ensures our work will continue for many years to come. We invite you to learn more about our work as highlighted in this Annual Report and to follow NNEDV on social media to stay current on our work throughout the year.

Susan Higginbotham, MEd
Chief Executive Officer, Pennsylvania Coalition Against Domestic Violence
Chair, Board of Directors, National Network to End Domestic Violence
We provide comprehensive, specialized consultation, assistance, and training to coalitions, Family Violence Prevention and Services Act (FVPSA) state administrators, and local programs to help them best address survivors’ needs.

Since 2006, we’ve conducted an annual, unduplicated count of adults and children seeking services from U.S. domestic violence programs during a single 24-hour period. The Domestic Violence Counts Report informs local and national policy decisions by providing a snapshot of the services people received, requested, and were turned away from due to lack of resources.

We strengthen advocates’ financial expertise to help domestic violence survivors move from short-term safety to long-term security. Through our Independence Project, we provide credit-building micro-loans to survivors of financial abuse.

Domestic violence is a leading cause of homelessness among women and children. We support transitional housing programs across the country, provide training and program development, and advocate for improved housing-related policies. We also work with national and federal agency partners to increase awareness, services, and accessibility for survivors.

We address the intersection of domestic violence and HIV/AIDS by developing and providing toolkits, training, and technical assistance to national, state, and local organizations working to address the unique challenges and barriers faced by domestic violence survivors living with, and at risk for, HIV/AIDS.

We put domestic violence at the forefront of the national agenda and amplify the voices of survivors, advocates, programs, and coalitions on Capitol Hill and with the Administration. We work closely with our members to understand the ongoing and emerging needs of domestic violence victims and advocacy programs and to ensure those needs are heard and understood by policymakers at the national level.

We focus on the intersection of technology, privacy, confidentiality, and innovation by educating and training advocates and professionals in the justice system, and by working with communities, agencies, and technology companies to respond to technology abuse, support survivors in their use of tech, and harness tech to improve services.

We provide free, individualized, and confidential legal information and support in both English and Spanish for survivors, their advocates, and their loved ones through the WomensLaw Email Hotline and state-specific, plain-language legal information and resources on WomensLaw.org.

Independence Project Loans
510 borrowers took out micro-loans to improve their credit scores and work toward financial independence through the Independence Project, our credit-building initiative.

Individualized Consultations
2,772 survivors, local programs, coalitions, and others received in-depth problem-solving and support addressing specific, complex issues that cross our multiple areas of expertise.

WomensLaw Email Hotline
3,752 victims and their friends, family, and advocates were helped by our team of legal professionals through the WomensLaw Email Hotline.

Trainings
23,483 people brought critical information and skills back to their colleagues, coworkers, and communities after attending an NNEDV training.

Resources Downloaded
193,873 tip sheets, fact sheets, toolkits, sample policies, and other resources were downloaded by coalitions, local programs, survivors, national partners, and other visitors.

Social Media Impressions
3,574,820 views of content were received by audiences across Facebook, Instagram, LinkedIn, and X (formerly Twitter).

Website Visitors
6,653,648 people visited NNEDV.org, WomensLaw.org, and TechSafety.org to find resources and learn about our work.

Media Impressions
12,333,304,570 impressions were viewed of media featuring NNEDV from more than 3,000 unique media pieces, including in Bloomberg Law, Buzzfeed News, CNET, CNN, E!, Forbes, Good Housekeeping, Healthline, Jezebel, Mother Jones, MSN, the New York Times, Newsweek, NPR, Parents Magazine, Pew Research Center, POLITICO, Reader’s Digest, Slate, The Associated Press, The Boston Globe, The Washington Post, and Yahoo!
2022 HIGHLIGHTS

February 14: We announced the recommendations from our Economic Justice and Domestic Violence Advisory Council with the theme “Workplace Protections: At Home & Away.”

February 16: We premiered new episodes of our Expanding the Continuum podcast, in partnership with Futures Without Violence, exploring the intersections of patriarchal violence and HIV.

February 17: We released “WomensLaw at a Glance – 2021 National Updates” in both English and Spanish to let member coalitions know about the latest legal updates in their state or territory.

March 8-10: We hosted our fifth annual Economic Justice Summit, “Financial Wellbeing: Taking Care of Ourselves and Our Communities,” with more than 250 attendees examining systems, sharing tools, identifying issues, and strengthening partnerships.

March 15: We celebrated the reauthorization of the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA), which included groundbreaking provisions to strengthen protections for some survivors.

March 17: We released version 2.0 of our Tech Safety App, which provides survivors and advocates with information about tech abuse and options for addressing it, in both English and Spanish.

March 21: We released the findings from our 16th Annual Domestic Violence Counts Report, capturing data from local domestic violence programs on September 3, 2021. (See page 6.)

May 10: We hosted a bipartisan Congressional briefing to discuss the findings of the 16th Annual Domestic Violence Counts Report, held in cooperation with Members of Congress, survivors, and advocates.

June 7: Apple announced a new Safety Check feature; we partnered with Apple during the development process to create a tool that gives survivors control and choices in order to increase their privacy and safety.

June 7-8: We hosted our annual Advocacy Days, welcoming more than 100 coalition staff members representing 37 states to meet with Members of Congress and share the stories behind our funding requests.

June 24: We condemned the Supreme Court ruling in Dobbs v. Jackson Women’s Health Organization. With our member coalitions, we continued to address the impacts of this decision on survivors and to advocate for Congress to act to protect access to abortion for everyone.

June 25: We joined member coalitions at the White House for the signing of the Bipartisan Safer Communities Act, which partially closed the “boyfriend loophole” and will provide lifesaving protections for some survivors.

July 19-21: We held our tenth annual Technology Summit, discussing innovative and practical ways to explore the intersection of technology and domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking, with more than 400 attendees.

September 7: We held our Domestic Violence Counts survey day in preparation for our 17th Annual Domestic Violence Counts Report, with more than 1,600 local programs participating.

September 16: The Kering Foundation hosted their inaugural Caring for Women Dinner, with proceeds supporting NNEDV’s WomensLaw project, the Ms. Foundation for Women, the Global Fund for Women, and the Jordan River Foundation.

September 21: We announced the launch of Many Voices, Many Traditions, a FVPSA Toolkit for Working with Indigenous Partners to support FVPSA state administrators and domestic violence coalitions as they engage, fund, and support underserved communities, including Indigenous Nations.

October 1: We hosted our Congressional Briefing on Implementing the Safer Communities Act.

October 7: We launched a live chat option for the WomensLaw Email Hotline, allowing users to schedule a live-chat appointment with our team to ask follow-up questions about their legal inquiry.

November 1: We hosted our 14th Annual Domestic Violence Counts Report Release.

November 14: Ring announced a donation of up to 10,000 home security devices to support survivor safety through NNEDV, enhancing the field’s capacity to support survivors and provide privacy and security best practices and safety planning.

November 15: We were invited to a White House meeting on Tenant Protections and Rental Affordability to share more about housing issues that impact survivors.

November 29: We joined the Asian Pacific Institute on Gender-Based Violence, Esperanza United, and Ujima Inc., The National Center on Violence Against Women in the Black Community, for a “Spotlight on Workplace Protections” Facebook Live event.

December 6-8: We hosted our Annual Meeting and Leadership Summit, “Hope, Inspiration, and Lasting Change,” with more than 130 coalition staff members. During the Annual Meeting, we presented the 2022 DREAM Award to Doreen Nicholas from the Arizona Coalition to End Violence, a FVPSA Toolkit for Fighting the War on Violence, and a FVPSA Toolkit for Working with Indigenous Partners.

December 7: President Biden signed the Safe Connections Act of 2022 into law. We were proud to support this legislation, which gives survivors the ability to remove themselves from family phone plans safely and easily without any termination fees.

December 21: We moderated a “Spotlight on Economic Justice Policy” Facebook Live event to discuss economic justice priorities for the new Congress and the Administration.

December 23: We applauded the funding increases included in Fiscal Year 2023 omnibus appropriations.
DOMESTIC VIOLENCE COUNTS

For the seventeenth consecutive year, NNEDV conducted our Domestic Violence Counts Survey: a one-day, unduplicated count of adults and children seeking domestic violence services in the United States. Each year, our Domestic Violence Counts Report summarizes this data and is instrumental in raising awareness about domestic violence and the work local programs do every day, providing lifesaving services to survivors and their families. Policymakers, journalists, national experts, and advocates at every level rely on NNEDV’s annual Domestic Violence Counts Report to understand survivors’ urgent needs, the issues and barriers domestic violence programs face providing services to victims, and the funding and policy changes necessary to make sure programs have the resources to meet survivors’ needs for safety, security, and healing.

The 17th Annual Domestic Violence Counts Report found that, on September 7, 2022, 79,335 adult and child victims of domestic violence received lifesaving services from local domestic violence programs. Tragically, on the same day, programs were unable to meet 12,692 requests for services because they lacked sufficient resources. The report also outlined necessary policy changes that can help programs and survivors.

NNEDV collaborates with corporations and foundations to implement our signature projects and address the causes and consequences of domestic violence. We also partner with federal agencies to provide specialized consultation, assistance, and training to coalitions and local programs. We’re grateful to our partners for making our work possible.
